Shout out to all the incarcerated artists and authors who have contributed their works and made this zine possible!

It has been a difficult year for those caught up in the system. As the pandemic rages on, conditions in jails and prisons get worse and worse with no regard to health or human rights. Prison administrators across the country are also waging a war on reading materials, attempting to prevent incarcerated people from reading about the outside world while also silencing their voices to prevent the public from hearing the truth about what's happening inside the prison industrial complex.

Where they build walls and barbed wire fences, we will build bridges. The relationships we develop with people who have written to us remind us with each heartening soulful letter of the importance and urgency of the moment, inspiring us to keep fighting. We work so the day will come when prisons are no more and all the people are free. Until then, we will continue to send books and make zines.

Illinois Prison News In Brief

Pretrial Fairness Act: Abolition of Money Bond Goes Into Effect in 2023

(Excerpt from Coalition to End Money Bond)

The abolition of money bond and its replacement with a new, individualized pretrial decision making process will take effect on January 1, 2023.

On January 13, 2021, the Illinois legislature passed the Pretrial Fairness Act as part of the Illinois Legislative Black Caucus' criminal justice reform bill, HB 3653 SFA2 (bill text). The Pretrial Fairness Act was written by advocates and organizers in the Coalition to End Money Bond and the Illinois Network for Pretrial Justice and championed in Springfield by Senators Elgie Sims and Robert Peters and Representative Justin Slaughter. The passage of the bill was only made possible because of the thousands of people and more than 100 organizations in our robust and diverse movement for pretrial freedom.

The Pretrial Fairness Act completely eliminates the role of money bond in Illinois, ensuring access to wealth will play no role in release or detention decisions. The Act also Limits Eligibility for Pretrial Incarceration, Regulates Risk Assessment Tools. Authorizes Release by Law Enforcement, Reduces Penalties for Violations of Pretrial Release Conditions, Requires Reconsideration of Detention and Release Conditions, Ensures Credit and Movement for People on Electronic Monitoring, Reforms the Warrant Process, Ensures Transparency and Oversight through Data Collection & Publication, and more. Illinois Department of Corrections Held in Federal Contempt for Medical Neglect

(Excerpt from ACLU-Illinois)

IDOC fails to meet requirements in three class action settlements impacting people with medical needs and disabilities. A federal court judge issued an order of contempt against the Illinois Department of Corrections (IDOC) after the Department repeatedly ignored court orders and failed to take appropriate steps to improve health care in the State's prison system. Specifically, the court acted after repeated failures by IDOC since 2018 to develop a specific, detailed plan needed to implement and remedy problems in the prison health care system that court experts identified multiple times.

"IDOC's failure here is staggering," said Camille Bennett, attorney at ACLU of Illinois. "They were required by court order three years ago to develop a plan to fix the unconstitutional health care deficiencies for our clients across the state, and they have yet to do it. We hope this will wake up their leadership."

Prisoners first sued IDOC in 2010, alleging systemic problems in health care, problems that lead to serious disease, harm and even death for people under the care of IDOC. The lawsuit, brought by named prisoners represented by the ACLU of Illinois, Dentons, and Uptown People's Law Center resulted in an agreement with the State of Illinois in 2018, approved by the court in May 2019. The agreement required IDOC to develop a comprehensive plan to improve medical care. For more than three years, the Department has failed to take that step, leading the court to enforce the contempt order.

Drinking water in Illinois prisons is a crapshoot

by Anthony Ehlers (Excerpt from Chicago Reader)

... The water at Stateville has a long history of contaminants. “I’ve been hearing about contaminated water for years from prisoners,” Alan Mills, executive director of the Uptown People’s Law Center, told The Appeal in March. Mills also noted that prisoners have complained that the water is often brown, sometimes smells like sewage, and has black flecks in it. Stateville was built in the 1920s, and its infrastructure—including the plumbing—is crumbling. Prisoners are worried that its pipes contain lead, and the corrosion from these pipes is the reason for the brown water. The prisoners’ complaints of discolored and strange-tasting water have been on record with the Uptown People’s Law Center since 2013.

This past spring, IDOC and the Illinois Department of Public Health announced that Legionella bacteria was detected at Stateville. It was later revealed that water in five other prisons had also tested positive for the bacteria. Shari Stone-Mediatore, managing director of Parole Illinois, told The Appeal in April that she was “appalled that the IDOC seems to be more concerned with covering up the problem than with protecting the health of the people in their custody.”

Investigations of Rampant Abuse at USP Thomson, Illinois

In July, Senator Dick Durbin and other lawmakers including Senator Tammy Duckworth and U.S. Representative Cheri Bustos sent a letter to the Inspector General, calling for an immediate investigation into a report that was published by NPR and the Marshall Project that detailed the deaths of several inmates as well as allegations of abuse by prison staff at USP Thomson.

Senator Durbin toured around the prison and gave a press conference on his findings, as well as announcing that the investigation is currently ongoing. When TV6 asked Durbin about whether he thought the safety of inmates at the prison were “at risk,” he responded that all prisons are dangerous, however USP Thomson has a reasonable safety standard. “I would say, in terms of the standards of them being used to protect the inmates and the staff I think this is a reasonable situation, from what I saw today,” Durbin replied.

Dozens of BOP officials also visited USP Thomson in July. In a letter to the U.S. deputy attorney general, AFGE Local 4070, the union that represents guards at USP Thomson, demanded that Warden Thomas Bergami be removed, claiming he has placed inmates, staff and communities at risk.

The guard’s union also went to the news to complain about handling contraband in the mail, claiming that three officers have been hospitalized, and asking that the prison outsource mail to the controversial mail digitization contractor “MailGuard” by Smart Communications. Previously, Dick Durbin co-authored a letter with U.S. Rep. Cheri Bustos (IL-17) to the BOP about their concerns for guards who claim to have been intoxicated by handling contraband smuggled through the mail. However, experts have thoroughly debunked the “accidental overdose risk” from accidentally inhaling or touching fentanyl while handling evidence as misinformation.

The Absurdity and Depravity of the Rise in Prison Mail Censorship

The pandemic exacerbated the cruel conditions of jail and prison with the closing of educational programs and libraries, preventing incarcerated people from having access to reading materials at a time of increased lockdowns and solitary confinement. We are often told by people writing to us that we are the only way that they can ever receive any reading material. It is in this context that prison authorities have worked to make the problem more cruel by implementing various new restrictions and regulations to prevent literature from reaching people. More often than not, they selectively enforce overly broad interpretations of new policies to cover for political and targeted repression and a general disdain for prisoner rights and the humanities. This prison mail censorship is taking place while right-wing reactionaries are trying to ban books from public schools and libraries, signifying a fascist escalation which must be opposed.

Some prison systems are outsourcing mail processing to profiteering digitization contractors such as Smart Communications or TextBehind: this prevents people from holding physical copies of their mail, forced to read poor scans or use expensive tablets. Others are narrowing the definition of a publisher or distributor to only Amazon or Edward R. Hamilton, preventing ordinary bookstores or publishers of materials otherwise unavailable elsewhere from reaching people in prison. Many prisons, such as medium and high security federal institutions, by policy have previously allowed hardcover books if sent direct from the publisher, but many are now implementing their own institutional supplements which violate national policy. At other spots, they are brazenly banning all books, newspapers and magazines entirely.

Most of these measures, which violate established court precedent and their own DOC and BOP program statements, are being done under the smokescreen of modified COVID operations or through War on Drugs fear mongering over drugs being smuggled in through books or mail soaked in synthetic drugs. Mail room guards are complaining that they are accidentally being intoxicated through handling contraband, despite the fact that scientists have thoroughly debunked the possibility of accidental fentanyl overdose risk (especially considering guards are usually required to use gloves and masks when handling mail). Many spots where they have eliminated physics visits and mail, drugs continue to be brought in through guards, demonstrating the pointless cruelty of banning books.

While it seems obvious that you shouldn't deprive people of their rights to receive mail to somehow prevent the alleged activities of a few people, the administration's war on reading materials is continuing to affect immeasurable harm on the imprisoned population. It has become increasingly difficult reaching people in surrounding states like Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, and Michigan. We are determined to break past these misinformed and overzealous restrictions to make sure incarcerated people who have contacted us get the good books they're looking for. If you are an incarcerated person who experienced these mailroom rejections, or have ideas how we can better bridge these walls, please write us.

Midwest Books has had a significant rise in rejections for all kinds of ridiculous and trivial reasons (a stain, yellowed pages, highlighting, etc). Here's a small handful of particularly absurd rejections:

Sherbourne County, MN: banning political books, misspelling "anarchy"

Missouri DOC says that "donated books" are considered "contraband" despite official policy allowing incoming publications from "bona fide publishers"

FCI Hazelton, WV: no "incoming publications" rejection which ordinarily requires a signature by The Warden and allows possibility of appeals by both prisoner and publisher. Just wrote in sharpie, "RTS non profit unauthorized". Same for FCI Beckley, also in WV, going a little overboard on the rejection stamps

Cook County Jail banning National Geographic Magazine for "nudity" because of scientific and artistic depiction of human evolution

Wisconsin DOC Places Midwest Books to Prisoners on Secret Ban List

We obtained an email exposing Wisconsin DOC administrators explicitly banning our organization from sending books to people they imprison. The email between Brian J Foster, Security Chief at Wisconsin Department of Corrections, and Ryan Blount, Columbia CI Security Director reads: "Some sites have seen an increase in books arriving from the above named vendor, "Midwest Books for Prisoners". After review and discussion it has been determined that we will not be accepting books from this vendor. Please disseminate this to necessary staff at your sites".

Midwest Books to Prisoners, as a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization and a legitimate book publisher and distributor, has been sending books to people incarcerated in Wisconsin for twenty years without incident. Official policy explicitly allows books, magazines, and newspapers sent directly from publishers and distributors. We were never notified that we were banned, but books started being rejected. No reason given after their "review and discussion" nor any opportunity to appeal the decision: the only clue as to their concern was discovered in this email that "some sites have seen an increase in books arriving".

We want to point out that the same Brian Foster, one month after writing this email, was also named as the new Iowa DOC Chief Security Operations Director. Both Iowa and Wisconsin DOC switched to privatized mail digitization services in the past year.

Monopoly on Communication, Tablets, & Freedom of Speech: The Tragedy of Mail Scanning

1. A person can only send 5 pages per envelope, so sending in legal research, help, and or educational materials will be impossible.
2. Workers unable to handle the workload of mail, plus machine inefficiency, mail will constantly be scanned off center, so you will miss part of your documents sometimes.
3. The originals are trashed! No more drawings from loved ones or important documents
4. IF you want something printed in black and white, you have to pay for it, $.10-.25 per page. If you want something color, you gotta pay for it $1 per page
5. If everything is digital, what happens if their server crashes, or the tablet malfunctions. You will not have access to your copies like you would physical copies.
6. It takes longer to get the mail! The mail is typically sent out of state for the service, I sent a letter to somebody in a jail in Illinois and it did not arrive for a month. Also it increases the chances of it being lost in the mail, and causes the sender of the mail to wonder if it got lost before or after it was scanned.
7. They say it's a security thing because it will prevent drugs from coming in, but we all know the war on drugs is a farce & if money is to be made, somebody will always find a way to make it. It's just another scam & a business deal so these prison profiteers can make more money. Complaints have been made by prison staff, of being intoxicated from handling incoming mail. While Studies by medical professionals have found it impossible to be affected by directly handling certain drugs. Especially while wearing gloves. Otherwise wouldn't mailmen always be contaminated?
8. Surveillance, each document will be recorded, and available for unlimited scrutiny and accusation. As a selling point, mail scanning service companies are bragging how it is a surveillance tool that prisons can use.
9. It's part of a bigger problem. Everything will be moved to the tablet. Some places are using tablets as books, charging $.03 per minute to read. Imagine trying to learn to read, study, and do research at that rate! Everything is being centralized around the tablets, which will reduce access to what types of reading materials will be available to readers. Recently a man went on hunger strike on death row, scheduled to be executed in a little over a year. He uses the tablet to bring awareness to his unjust execution and to communicate with the outside world so he can stop his execution. His phone calls kept being dropped on the tablet, and every second counts when fighting for your life. Tablet functionality can literally become a life and death situation. Add the mail scanning functionality to that and you have too many opportunities for error.
10. It may be possible to lose info saved on your tablet, just like when songs are erased off of your tablet. Imagine hard to access documents being erased off your tablet during a time of need.

Newsletter and Printouts

We are beginning a new service for incarcerated people offering free subscriptions to printed newsletters. You can request printouts from a particular website or blog (such as Its Going Down or your local news station), a social media feed (twitter, instagram), RSS feed, a Wikipedia article, or you can give us a list of topics or subjects you are interested in (legal updates, sports, diy, politics, anything). We believe that these printed pages may be an allowable alternative for people at those terrible institutions that irrationally prohibit books and magazines.

Please write to us and tell us that you would like a Newsletter Subscription and tell us your interests and we'll start sending you printouts!

The COVID Ball, a healthcare smash,
Defiant faker, chasing fame;
"Re-open States!" – A bedlam bash –
A Waltz of scorn – A surge of shame

He stands exposed, above the law,
Below the belt, his words precise;
Without a doubt, without a flaw,
He helps himself at any price.

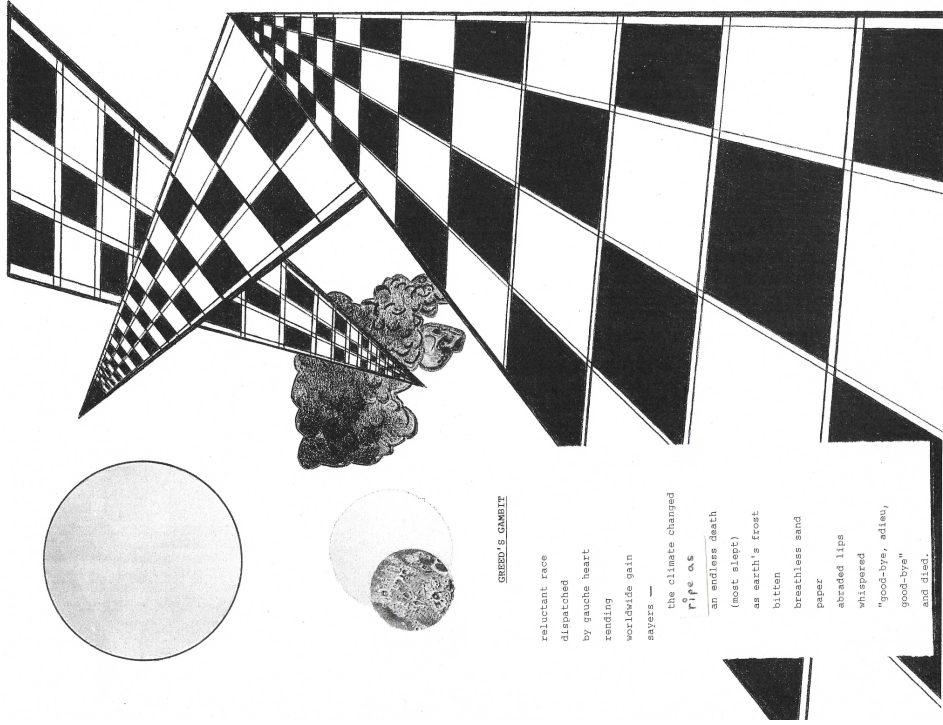

His plans unveiled, a plaque of tears,
Bedeviled bungler's tasteless Tweets;
Divide & Dupe – he banks of fears –
He touts untruth with guff conceit.

"The overrated Virus Test!"
Ignoring facts, the hate he stokes;
As families lay their own to rest,
He lies upright, "It's Just A Hoax!"

"Re-open Schools!" The game's begun –
He throws them bones, we hold our breath;
Our children's dream and hopes undone
As time unmasks the face of death.

GREYD'S GAMBIT

sayers –
the climate changed ripe as an endless death

abraded lips
whispered
"good-bye, adieu,
good-bye"
and died.

Political Commentary

A Prisoner's Pain

By Drew Betterly

There's no protection for the victim when you're the poor.

No defense for the weak when you're considered less.

All odds are against you when all you want is to be equal.

Can't put up much a fight when deprived of your breath.

With callused spirits & longing souls repentant,

We look for daylight in darkness through the depths of an endless sentence.

Told to forgive our neighbors they abolish our rights to be forgiven.

We live out our days in filth & sorrow as the dead among the living.

So many locked away experiencing life through rusted bars & razor wire.

When suicide is the only hope in receiving any power that's higher.

Behind a steel curtain they hide us, societies dirty secrets,

To rot, lost & alone, buried in our regrets & underachievements.

Is this it? Is this all? When you're sick of hearing those questions,

Motives & motivations become non-existent & obsolete

Shadows cast upon the morals to empty spiritual lessons.

When you eat hate, drink stress, & breath nothing but pain,

Every night you lay to rest in a bed of death & cover up in flames.

And as our eyes roll back & our mouths hang slack with stress induced delusions,

We give up all hope of better days & give in to cynical conclusions.

Reparations

Copyright April 25, 2018 by William Bouton

Johnny Rebel statues staring North
Mobile and Gulf Railroad steel rails set on course
Dusty dirt road winding through the dell
Brownsville General Store porch rocking chair to set a speel
M & G's Mogul 97 engine sighing steam-cloud spray
Faded Coke sign flaps on a brick wall
Passenger car a Jim Crow Combo so-called
Bubba's barnstorming billboard vying for votes
Ole 97's smokestack belching out blueblack smoke
It's a South been and gone not so long ago
Lingering in memories of folktales sung now more than told
Days of oppressive separation sore remembered with scorn
When unfettered race-hatred was some unspoken social norm

Reparations reparations how can it ever be enough
For degradation of generations
The People's culture of broken trust

Reparations reparations cannot ever be enough
For realization of full emancipation
Choosing freedom is the one must

Reparations reparations have scarcely even begun
For restoration of our wounded nation
Healing the people must be done
Old sins must be forgiven
Systemic racism must be ended and forbidden

Ode to Higher Love

Copyright August 8, 2021 by William Bouton

Why do the written lines
Fill my mind like wings lifting
Reaching to the sky and higher
When an Angel imparts gifts
Granting flight to caged minds?
While she dances to forget
The heartbreaks of broken dreams
Our timeline horizons
Can it be starshine alignment
Or the power of self sacrifice
Placing others' needs on par with Heaven's scheme
Thoughts are prayers to the Universe Cloud
Stored with tidal power of sacred psychic energy
Shooting Inspiration's sparks from Angel wings
Borne on winds of desire to teach
Refueled and encouraged with every enlightened eye
The vanguard of Humanities holy of holies
Guiding lost, blind, angry, kind, scared, scarred, and lame alike
Reaching across chasms of static, unafraid
Touching without fleshly contact inside the deepest core
Where the Third Eye sees with greater clarity
The translucent angelic hand aura of hope offerings
Laid upon the altar of Knowledge and Growth
I think the elevations of Mind
Must be her strength of love for others
A love beyond the five sense
A love above confines of lust and death
A love of existence for all its' gritty worth
A love that thinks therefore a love in Truth
Undeniable, reliable, pliable, reconcilable
Dance Angel, Whirl, spin, shake, shimmer
A gleeful dervish of Illumination celebrating
Setting Fire to all minds caught in your retinue train

A Dream For A Knight

By John Wilson

A bright, magnificent day it seems
The sun comes out and the dew gleams
The Knight awakens to face his dreams

Beware the dragon my son:
Those eyes of flame and teeth that catch
Watch out for the scales you see, the lair and the latch

His sword was sharp and long
He waited hoping to be wrong

But the dragon came stompijng with all it's might
They fought for hours, drom dawn 'til night
They fought 'til the dragon hit the ground
The heart is what the sword had found

Never had this dragon felt such dread
Now he lays off of his feet, now he lays dead

The Knight has fulfilled his deed
The Kingdom he will always need

But the Knight he wakes
His head he shakes

The dream is now Reality

Looking out my cell window I can see; a barbed-wire and electrical fence that surrounds me
I've lost my freedom and positive strife
The pain cuts me like a knife
My existence of being is very frail
Life's positive expectations are extremely pale
I sit in unthoughtfulness and sorrow
For today will be the same as tomorrow

By Michael Green

From an anonymous prisoner at Fairfax Detention Center, Virginia

Place is beyond fucked up. My first week here in quarantine, an inmate had a temper tantrum so he broke a tablet (we have tablets here btw we can text, go on certain apps, video calls, read news, watch movies, etc.) The co's came and called code red and told the inmate to put his hands on the stair rail, the inmate complied. Then one co holds his hands so he couldn't move and the other co started beating the inmate, kneeing him. The inmate took a beating, we all started bangin yelling, wtt! Y'all doin?" Then the inmate head butted the CO and the other one body slammed him. The inmate started seizing cuz he landed on his head but the CO put his knee on his back while dude is shaking, convulsing, and foam coming out his mouth. He couldn't breathe. We all started bangin. They thought it was gonna become George Floyd shit. They hogtied him with cuffs eventually while he still seizing and dragged him out... I never found out what happened to him but I heard they do that a lot here. These co's are assholes, they don't give us rec if they don't feel like it, they're always "short on staff" so I'm always locked down in population. This is the worst jail I've ever been bro, it's not the inmates. It's the CO's. Sometimes they don't even have enough trays to feed us so I get fucked cuz I'm the last cell. These CO's are lazy AF, racist AF, and really go out of their way to make our lives miserable. I ask for toilet paper, they tell me to use my sock, I hit the intercom button to ask for a Sargent, and they write me up for...

“Liberation”

By C. T. Riley

Straight into the dark (followed after my heart):
pain, the prescription from the start,
with a constant fight - everyday & night to bring my soul out the dark to the light

Something bout us: inside ‘em fear/love/hate our presence - captured our bodies (but, not our essence)
Taught falsehood singing the alphabet ... who I was (can’t remember) so, I learned to forget,
life full of regret.

I was held hostage but what I refused to let go of...
still reached 4 liberation & love, where no humans (no longer human) forgot about being lone time, of last time amid dreaming, technologically consumed by distractions devoid of meaning.
Reality neglected then presents itself in a cracked minor - oblivious to the signs of 1 perfect storm drawing nearer.

I roamed the streets of higher planes reachin 4 the almighty
from Philly, to the N-A-P, back to Cincinnati every good got an elm street & a Freddy, in between the blessing & the curse, the last shall be first lessons learned from the best while going through the worst...
reaching liberation from the fear:
of, failure/death/self and a prison that profits of my being here is human trafficking since the 1st prison sailed the middle passage.
introduced my people to guns/drugs/disease: they say I’m the savage;

From the cross to the streets & courts (Crucifixion is a fact).
Will you be ready 4 the next act?
What’s your preoccupation, your ideology, justice & liberation?
It’s not just about you - about me...
there can be no true liberation until we all get free!

Cranial Indigestion

By Gabby Gilkins

What's an octopus have to gain
With his mouth so close to his brain?
Gastroencephalitis-
I didn't coin it to spite us-
Brain trauma caused by stomach strain.

Octode: Eight Is Enough

A neat critter is the octopus
He does not raise an octo-fuss.
Nor does he ever question why
Two of him are octopi

With skill he gets each treat and prize;
His brain helps his waterlogged eyes.
For little fish his stomach yearns,
And with four arms he signals turns.

Octopus: Octode Of Admiration

Scientists put fish in a jar,
Which he opened, the shining star,
Despite a lid screwed tightly on,
He ate the fish, and was octo-gone.

It's good to know that octo means eight,
For this makes the octopus doubly great,
With eight arms he maneuvers sea and rocks
And turns all eight colors of my crayon box

She's My Concrete Jungle

By Andrew Arciniega

Nights that were once lived by insanity's obedience,
Youth's driven to segregation because of it's influence.
Bigotry was no longer of skin color but now of a star,
Curiosity was youth's Death for folks & people that went too far.
Unwise judgements from innocence's corrupted by truth's falsified,
Our youth lived by wars that left us tormented & brutalized.
Scars lay upon us because of past & recent generation's ignorance,
Fear became our choice of wisdom & pain our guidance.
Togetherness sought her comfort her blood was cold concrete,
She bares the scars of our stories of a bloody defeat.
Pilsen raised, Cook County groomed but Statesville's calamity
She became my first love, her love became my insanity.
Once I was asked "what did she give besides your name?"
A love unmeasurable, wounds unbearable & both remain..
Some called her a Concrete Jungle, we called her home,
To us the lost children the streets never leave you alone!

To get through this / my soul reached for Anubis.
Blindly rambunctious, crossbred instead of one way ahead.
I've become a double artist. submerged in this darkness/
Surrounded by so many heartless.
Taught that I am less/ To keep hidden my greatness /
A sun of Anubis/ even I didn't believe it/
Till I was in the snake pit. In the darkest abyss found inner light, supernova sh-t .
increasing though unseemly conduits/ what is this manifested. Effortless !
How do I share and stay with mist, cozy twist, (Say My Name) feels great on your lips/ speaking from the freaking lines / thought and spirit / Questions in the ethers , can you sense it/ dense , thick ,invisible, makes you fearless!
So many fear this, when expressed as self love/
where's my peers at/ two ears two eyes.
Did you come to listen? I have>
This idiot did not come to put you down. Just arrived to share instruction/
One way or another we all cover each other by how we function, interaction/ is always friction/ it goes squared, in fractions/
Not a thing is ever in complete stasis/ emotions and eruptions both serve to placate/
Balance will, by circle spin/ around and around/ those words, zenergy of thought.
Steven even pulled it apart, it has a secondary blurry profound texture, as if a spell that vexed or hexed when it's Natural.
We experience consequence/ hence forth/
ofcourse no wonder your under (NO) (the) lussion/the protrusion.
Will give you the exact track/ the projectile will be fruitful or futile/ SO/ Take the shot /
Its the best one you've got only at this spot/ Or not.
Either way you must continue to move along on the foray/developing / personalities, reputation, forte.
As if one might place, their weakness upon the display of consciousness-
Akashick records hold unlimited-ness, Life is the test.
The worlds Lies' pale in comparison/ to the verse which emerges form mystical splendor/thus the power in these words is a plus/ Plugged in to us/ Instead of dread/it drives me ahead/Not freezing us/freeing us/Grasp a hold?
Life's on a thin thread/precious till dead/ there's no escaping- whets ahead/
Explain if you can a permanent truth/ Capture the beautiful all you can as it flows through You (me).
Dead and Lost (the cost) Make a spiritual decision/
Then and now a piece (peace) was missing /What now is always disappearing/
Anubis endowed, I'd forgotten My Power, not just the body/
It's the mission over vision/ character Earning/ crossing the burning sands, as they turn crimson, learning hurts/ when given. (giving)

HOW TO SUPPORT MIDWEST BOOKS TO PRISONERS!

FUNDING:

Since the beginning of the pandemic, the number of requests we receive has quadrupled. By donating just a few dollars, you can help pay for postage costs which allow us to continue to provide books and other print media to the incarcerated people we serve, free of charge. Find donation information on our website:
www.MidwestBooksToPrisoners.org.

DONATING BOOKS:

We accept fiction, nonfiction, graphic novels, textbooks, magazines, religious texts, art books, zines, poetry and essay collections, coloring books, or anything else. No spiral bound or leather-covers. Must be “new-ish” (mailroom guards are tripping about stains). Please note: we do not send or accept materials which advocate hatred towards people on the basis of race, gender, sexual orientation, or religious affiliation.

You can drop donations off at the the Community Center door at:

First Trinity Lutheran Church
643 W. 31st Street
Chicago, Illinois 60608

VOLUNTEERING:

We are an all-volunteer organization and looking for more help! We meet every Saturday at Noon at the Community Center at the above address to pack books and respond to requests. Find out more about volunteering on our website:

www.MidwestBooksToPrisoners.org

We try to support people inside by sending reading material. When ordering in the future (or letting others know about our service) please keep in mind the following:

1. We are a very small bookstore / organization, completely run by volunteers. None of us on “staff” are paid: we all have other jobs and do this in our spare time. We get hundreds of requests each month for books. We try to fill as many as possible, but sometimes we get behind. So please be patient; we are sorry for any delays.
2. We operate on 100% donations, so sometimes we are able to send more packages when the donations are plentiful.
3. We will look you up before sending to make sure that you have not been moved so that we are mailing to the correct location.
4. Please donate the books to other people inside or to the facility library (if you have one) when you are done with them. We want to make sure as many people have access to reading and education material as possible.
5. We do not have a catalog that you can order from. Simply tell us the genre that you are looking for, or interests you have. We will try to match your requests to the books we have in stock at that time, best as possible. Try to be both specific and general in your requests. For example, “I would love Stephen Kings It, but any horror book is good too”
6. When you write to us, please let us know of your facility rules for books. This helps us a lot and minimizes books being returned.
7. We can read letters in English and Spanish (hablamos espanol) We also have (limited) books in foreign languages.
8. Want to help? We can always use stamps if you have extra, but no worries if you don't. We can also use thank you notes to put on our website for our donors. You can include your name if you wish, or don't sign it if you wish your thank you note remain anonymous. Please write “thank you” on the envelope.
9. Are you an artist? Consider donating some art to us. We can sell it on our website (prints and/or original) and raise money for our project. And we can donate some funds back to you! Write us for more info on this.
10. We have children's books! Would you like to have children's books to read to your kiddos? Or have them sent to your kiddos? Please write us about this service as well. Be sure to include what age/reading level you are asking for.
11. When is your birthday? Let us know! Sometimes we are totally guessing as to the books we send. Feel free to tell us what you think of them next time you write.

Midwest Books to Prisoners is an all-volunteer 501 (c)(3) not for profit organization based in Chicago. Since 2004 we have been accepting requests from any and all incarcerated people and mailing them reading material that corresponds to their areas of interest free of charge.

If you or a loved one would like to request reading material, you can contact us via snail mail at:
